الشاي والمنطق

by Nancy Kalfoudi - Papakou

لماذا يجب أن يحدث هذا معي بالذات؟

هذا هو السؤال الذي يطرحه العقل البشري أولاً عند مواجهة بعض المصائب المفاجئة .

لا يمكننا استيعاب هذه الظروف ولا توجد استمرارية وثبات في الطريقة التي تعلمنا بها التفكير المنطقي للتوصل إلى النتيجة .

هل نتساءل بنفس الطريقة عن كل شيء جيد يحدث لنا؟

لا، على الأغلب أبداً!! ولكن من المحتمل جداً أن تكون الظروف هي نفسها أو متشابهة إلى حد ما .

إنه مرة أخرى هذا الشيء الذي نسميه عشوائياً .

بطلاتنا الثلاث في استراحة من حياتهن العصرية، وقد ألهمهن حبهن وتجاربهن، ويشعرن بذلك بعمق عندما يشربن الشاي بالحديقة في الهواء الطلق .

Sigri La contrée des dieux

by Stratis Panourios

Les dieux grécques invitent le philosophe français Plato Goucault à Sigri sur l'île de Lesbos. "La contrée des Dieux"; tel que l'a imaginé Albert Camus, à l'avènement de la troisième guerre mondiale et lui demande de communiquer leur dernier message au genre humain - Vont-ils sauver l'humanité ou bien la décision finale appartient-t-elle aux mortels ?

Al Tira

by Sara Profeta

How is it suddenly for the most beloved person in your life to be trapped in a deadly reality? How does it feel to feel helpless, caught between those you love and who you are? The only way to prove to Ari, the charming, stern anti-terrorism agent, the innocence of her beloved friend Darius, was to betray him. But how do you stop those determined to sow death? How do you restrain the deeply rooted hatred? What happens when the terrorists' pursuit becomes two-way? What happens when raw terror breaks you into a thousand pieces? Nothing will ever be the same again. In the terrifying darkness, the only thing that gives her strength is his voice whispering to her soul: Don't be afraid, Esther, I am here...

Sarah Propheta was born and raised in Thessaloniki, from parents with roots in Andalusia and Florina. She was the only child of Samuel, a Holocaust survivor, and Hope-Alegra Grammatikou, a life-fighter. She began writing short stories, some of which she shared with her classmates from elementary school. Until then, however, she only wrote for herself. Her work in tourism opened up the horizons of her thinking. Through her travels, she came into contact with places and peoples, a fact that gave vent to her restless (very much) and adventurous (equally very) spirit. Thus, she shaped a unique inner world, with humor and utterly free thought. In recent years, she has been living and working in Athens. With her are her two children as well as her grandchildren. She loves the sea and the only companion that never left her alone is her motorcycle.

To Agnanti

by Panagiotis Tsamparlis

"Agnanti" is a work of fiction. The story is set in the late 1970s and describes the summer romance of Irene and Paris which takes an unexpected turn. The book portrays daily life, lifestyle, entertainment, flirting and love affairs with the limitations of that era. It also reflects the principles and rules governed by the customs of the time which dictated and defined the functioning of society, considering only what was proper and not what was desired.

As a Like as Two Peas in a Pod

by Anna Mitsopoulou

Lydia and Artemis are like two drops of water. Sisters born with only a few minutes difference. An ovum that for inexplicable reasons split after conception. The two cells that emerged developed autonomously. An inexplicable bond connects the two sisters one that cannot be scientifically explained but it is acknowledged by experts. The two girls had their own way to communicate and a developed intuition for each other. They were so alike but so different in soul! How easy is it really to switch roles in a critical moment? Nikos Perrakis, hostage to his passions, will be drawn into a labyrinth and will ultimately find himself facing fait accompli. Nikolas is the young protagonist of the story. He is the driving force and the hope for the continuation of life. Nothing dies unless we want it to ourselves. He lives in our souls forever! Our book takes us to distant Africa with Doctors Without Borders where we are shocked not only by the dire conditions prevailing there but with the greatness of the doctors as well.

You Illuminated My Life

by Anna Mitsopoulou

Two women are fighting for the custody of the same child. Fate brings them together and plays its tragic game. Who will win? Who will truly care for this child's feelings? Can a child have not one but two mothers? How far can a mother's love for her child go? To crime, to abduction or to suicide? Who is the true mother? The one that gives birth to a child or the one that gives to it all her love? What is the role of the father? And what is the role of the third woman? How much courage and magnanimity can a woman possess to bring up the child of someone else? Is our society mature enough to accept such a thing?

Dante

by Vana Koutsou

Inspector Clive Anderson and his assistant take on a peculiar case: A young ship engineer is found charred in his apartment after a fire that appears to be a domestic accident. The autopsy reveals a massive slash from one end of his neck to the other. The prime suspect, a colleague of the victim, is Josephine Hart, who has a dark past as a member of the religious sect "Gathering of the Pure Heart." As Josephine departs on the ship Dante, various chilling events occur bringing troubles to the crew. Is there something hidden in the ship? And to whom those invisible hands belong to?

Hannah's Game

by Vana Koutsou

Another night in Georgiana Quinton's unsavory life. An unexpected phone call from New York City. Her best friend, Hannah Walsh, is dead by a lethal jump from the 20th floor of the building where she was working as a journalist, at Clarity newspaper. Everything leads to suicide but Georgiana has a different opinion. Who were bothered by Hannah's articles? Which political figures were attacked by her journalistic arrows? What investigations she was up to before her tragic death? In a very mysterious way, Georgiana finds Hannah's laptop, with a weird online game that she was playing before her death. She decides to dive in and play the same game as her friend. But, there is a catch. The online horror game is experiential. It makes Georgiana go through some extremely frightening and unique challenges that will test her limits, in order to win and discover the truth. Her biggest fears come alive and jump out of the screen, ready to devour her. Will Georgiana manage to overcome the dangers and discover the truth behind the death of her beloved friend before the game's maze swallows her once and for all?

When Bosphorus Wept

by Olga Liaratzi

What secrets lay behind the golden chain found a few metres away from Gavriil Papavasiliou's dead body? He was a doctor at Abdul Hamid's palace, stabbed to death in front of his house. His daughter Ariadne undertakes to find the murderer. Against a backdrop of the turn of the twentieth century and the outburst of nationalism in the Balkans, a tempestuous love affair and a strong friendship seek vindication. The heroes, caught in the din of the historical developments of their time, follow their own destiny. They get hurt, strive and mature in adversity towards their personal bliss.

The Witches of Thermaikos Gulf

by Olga Liaratzi

"Two witches converse daily with the waves of Thermaikos Gulf revealing their secrets. Koralia, a spiritualist and wife of the wealthy businessman Miltos Avramoglou, eccentric and intuitive, is condemned to social isolation as those around her fail to understand her. For them, she will always remain an enigmatic creature, a creature that often speaks with gods and demons with angels and fairies. Myrto Paraschou, endowed with unparalleled beauty, courage and diligence, dreams for a better life. She easily ensnares any man who approaches her. No one can resist her charm, not even the wealthy husband of Koralia, Miltos. Among heroes and revolutionaries, innocent and guilty, murderers and rapists, they struggle to survive in a world of hatred and revenge in Thessaloniki during the post-World War II era.. Tomorrow, unpredictable and painful as it is, unveils their illusions, granting them not only with maturity but also with redemption as well."

Iron Curtain (Part one)

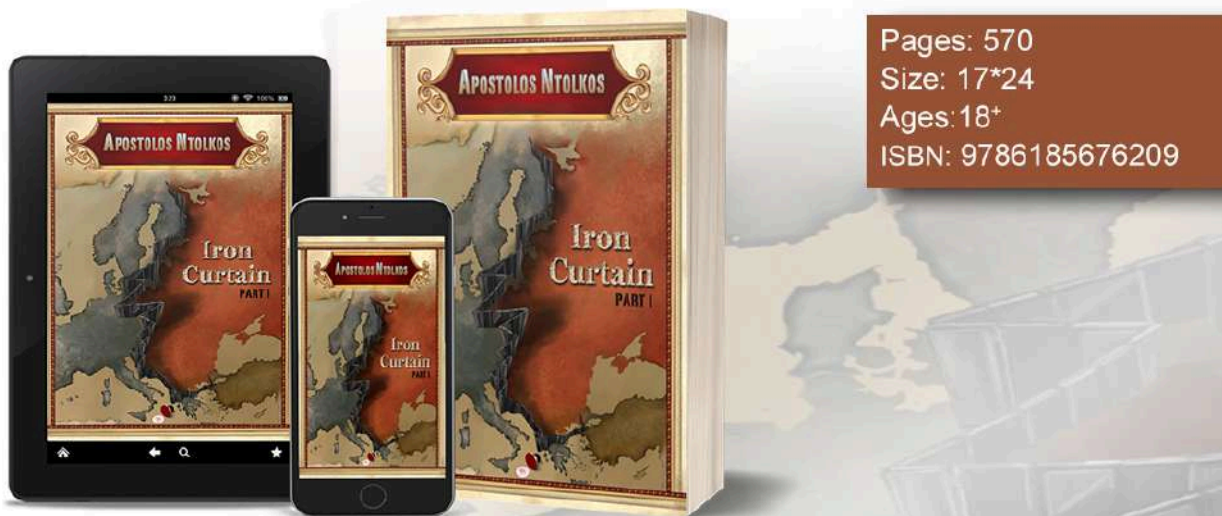

by Apostolos Ntolkos

What if the Greek Civil War did not end with the defeat of the Democratic Army?
What if the two opposing sides had jointly decided to end hostilities with a compromise solution?

What if that compromise solution was the division of the country into two Greeces, as was done in Germany and Korea?

A communist Greece in the North and a pro-Western Greece in the South?

The answer lies in the book you hold in your hands!

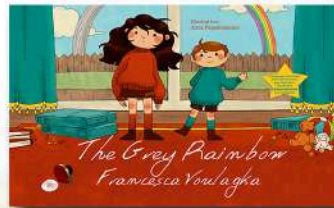

Born in Serres, Greece, on December 18, 1990, Apostolos Dolkos embarked on a life filled with creativity and a passion for storytelling. During his school years, his dreams took him to various paths: aspiring to become an astronaut, a footballer, and later a journalist. However, fate had other plans, leading him to the Department of Theater Studies at the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. While theater had always held a special place in Apostolos's heart, it was during his university years that his passion truly ignited. He found himself deeply immersed in the world of storytelling, performance, and the transformative power of theater. His innate ability to craft narratives and his fascination with human emotions found a perfect outlet in this expressive art form. Over the course of his four years at the Department of Theater Studies, Apostolos immersed himself in the world of theater, expanding his knowledge and honing his skills. He actively participated in theater games, delved into the realm of amateur writing, and gained valuable experience working at the prestigious Portico Theater. Additionally, he played a pivotal role in reviving the department's theater group and further enriched his theatrical repertoire through participation in amateur productions. Apostolos's thirst for learning and his desire to make a positive impact extended beyond the confines of the university. He pursued a postgraduate degree in Philology at the University of Crete, further broadening his intellectual horizons. Simultaneously, he actively engaged with the Serres Municipal and Regional Theater (ΔΗΠΕΘΕ Σερρών), contributing his expertise and passion for theater to the local community. Apostolos's creative spirit extended beyond the stage, as he found solace and expression in the art of writing. He regularly contributes articles to a local periodical, sharing his thoughts, insights, and perspectives with a wider audience. His passion for storytelling led him to publish his first play, "We Are Our Choices," in 2019, under the Vakchikon Publications banner.

Chrysoula Tsiatsiou-Rakoviti
Writer and Foreign Languages Teacher (English & Spanish)
A few words about me.

I come from Trikala, a picturesque town in the heart of Greece. I am married and I have a twenty-one year old daughter. My time is divided between my two Foreign Language Centres where I teach English. I have recently graduated with a degree in Spanish Language and Literature from the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. I am a firm believer in lifelong learning as the path to spiritual development. The rest of my time is devoted to books – reading and writing. At the present time, I write books for children which I believe can not only entertain but also nurture and educate children's minds. Finally, I love music, dance, cinema and travel when I have some free time.

Sophia Paidousi is a remarkable individual who embodies a deep passion for education, storytelling, and exploration. Driven by a love for children, she pursued her dream of becoming a kindergarten teacher, earning a degree in Early Childhood Education & Care from the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. Her dedication to learning extends beyond the classroom, as she has also completed postgraduate studies in Educational Psychology at the University of Cyprus.

Sophia's expertise in early childhood education is evident in her role as a kindergarten teacher, where she nurtures and inspires young minds. Her passion for teaching extends beyond the classroom, as she also serves as an English teacher, sharing her knowledge of the language with students of all ages.

Sophia's creativity shines through in her captivating children's books. Her debut picture book, "The Parfait," tackles themes of diversity and bullying, while her second book, "The Double Mirror," explores diversity, nutrition, and self-image. Her books have received rave reviews from critics, parents, and educators alike, and are distributed throughout Greece and Cyprus.

by Maggie Evans

Choco is a little plump fairy. She lives in the woods with her family in a wonderful Fairyland. But Choco feels sad. She looks happy but deep inside she feels sad. Nobody has noticed it until the day that a friend of hers is in danger. All the fairies are upset and the fairy community is on alert. What is happening? Who is in danger? How Choco feels about it? What is going to happen leave all the fairies with their mouth wide open. How will Choco's friends react? Is she in danger too? A black spider, the fairy police, the fairy fire brigade and a TV report are parts of the puzzle in this story. How is Choco connected with all these?

The Moon of January

by Margarita Antilochou, Tasos Kamateros

What happens on a frosty January night when a young, impatient, full moon is about to take its place in the sky? How does a lunar heart break and what effect does this have on the human world? The fairy tale features a bunch of modern saviors, such as the fake doctor who wants to heal a broken heart with a band-aid, or the tailor who wants to patch everything up with a needle and thread. Three flowers appear promising what a heart may desire but, in the end, there can only be one cure for the moon to shine.

Margarita Antilochou was born in Athens, Greece. Ever since she recalls, she has been either making up her own stories, or sneaking into other people's stories and pretending she was one of the characters. She studied English literature and works as a teacher, translator, book editor and is committed to helping aspiring writers meet their writing goals. Her stories have been included in collections and journals.

Tasos Kamateros was born in Crete, Greece and raised in Athens. As a little boy, he would often make up stories for his friends. Then he studied marketing but chose to become a teacher and keep making stories for children and adults. Both authors now live on Rhodes, Greece. They met as colleagues at a language school. Their shared interest in writing brought them together and sparked their friendship.

Chrysoula Tsiatsiou-Rakoviti
Writer and Foreign Languages Teacher (English & Spanish)
A few words about me.

I come from Trikala, a picturesque town in the heart of Greece. I am married and I have a twenty-one year old daughter. My time is divided between my two Foreign Language Centres where I teach English. I have recently graduated with a degree in Spanish Language and Literature from the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. I am a firm believer in lifelong learning as the path to spiritual development. The rest of my time is devoted to books – reading and writing. At the present time, I write books for children which I believe can not only entertain but also nurture and educate children's minds. Finally, I love music, dance, cinema and travel when I have some free time.

The Most Heartwarming Christmas

by Evgenia Papaioannou

As Christmas approaches, a small fir tree eagerly awaits a buyer, hoping to find a warm and loving home for the holidays. However, this little tree is quite picky! It doesn't want just anyone to take it home. And when little Stavros points at it with his finger, the tree turns up its nose in disapproval. Little did the tree know that Stavros's simple gesture would change both their lives forever.

For sometimes, all it takes is a single moment in time to make a difference.

Magical Summer Holidays

by Maroula Konti

"This summer is going to be wonderful. The 'Magical Summer Holidays' will keep you company with stories, games, crafts, crazy puzzles, crosswords, and exercises."

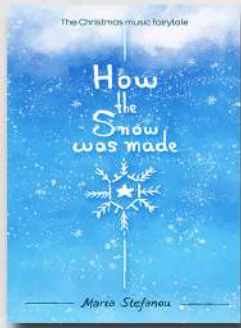

Maroula Konti was born in Athens and grew up in Plaka, Athnes. Since she was a child, she has been in fond of imagining shapes by looking at the clouds and creating her own fantastic stories and fairy tales.

Fluent in German and English, she has become a tour guide and translator. She has translated more than 50 books from major publishing houses (literature, children's books, historical, and scientific). She was awarded by Pnevmatiki Estia Tranouli for the translation of the book "The Myths of Nations" by E. Konidaris publishing house.

She has translated over 200 movies, documentaries, and series for Greek television. At some point, she "rediscovered" her old love for fairy tales and "dressed up" one of them with music and images. She hopes to publish soon a series of children's books focusing on Greek mythology.

One Step At A Time

by Maria Stefanou

All the steps towards self-love and acceptance, through the path of emotions and the story of young Hermione, searching to find her way and who she really is. "Passerby", a wise father figure that accompanies her and takes her by the hand until she learns to "walk" on her own. Written in 2016, it is the book version of the beloved, same titled self improvement musical One Step at a Time, that booked over 250 performances setting off from the Music Concert Hall of Thessaloniki with 80 artists on stage, which surpassed over 5000 copies during the first three years of its circulation. It has been translated into English and is now being distributed worldwide under the title "One Step at a Time".

Maria Stefanou, was born in Thessaloniki in 1988. She is an author, musical performer and theatrical producer. She is a multitalented, versatile artist with skills in dancing, singing and acting. Her studies took place not only in Greece but abroad, in England and the Czech Republic. She has sung and performed in successful musical productions at the Regency Casino Thessaloniki and collaborated with exceptional people in the show business such as Takis Zacharatos, Makis Delaportas, Panos Amarantidis, Ada Tsesmeli Edwards, Konstantinos Athiridis and Sia Koskina. She was also the choreographer of many popular musical shows, 'Dorian Grey' The Musical, 'Sky full of Stars', 'I Have A Dream', 'Back In The Days' and 'Our First Party - 60's Tribute'. She participated in numerous other musical productions such as 'Great Alexander Rock Opera' by Konstantinos Athiridis and many children's musicals like 'Cabbage and Chuckles' the Musical by Tasos Ioannidis. Maria made her debut as a writer in 2014 with 'Princesses The Musical' at French Keys Jazz Club in Thessaloniki, which was inspired and musically arranged by conductor Spyros Rassias. The show was hugely popular with audiences and 22 shows were sold out. 'One Step At A Time' was her first complete work. With this new trust in her gift, her book was written in March 2016 and a year later she presented it as a musical play at the Concert Music Hall of Thessaloniki, with a cast of 80 performers and 24 original songs. The direction and choreography were also created by her, and now the musical counts more than 100 shows and plays for 3 years in a row. The first edition of her book that was published in 2017, was sold out, to be followed by a new edition which was republished in March 2019.

How The Snow Was Made

by Maria Stefanou

"How the Snow was Made" is a heartwarming tale of self-discovery and environmental responsibility. Three children try to understand why it has stopped snowing. What does snow symbolize and why do we feel joy when we see it? A tender journey to your inner self... A tender journey for all the family written in a humorous and simple way. A tender journey to activate yourself, to brighten your soul and to remember whatever you can

She has also written the following books: "The vampire called Anastasia" "Paper World" " How the snow was made", " The state of harmony" "For life to start" Maria's creations are inspired from personal experiences and her own journey to find herself. She also continues creating and translating her musicals into English, in order to fulfill her dream and share her art globally with all humanity. 'My art reflects me, changing and developing along with me', she says adding that 'the journey is still at the beginning.

The Healing Soul Herb

by Thaleia Antoniadoy

Two children, Marco, a twelve-year-old boy, and Louisa, an eleven-year-old girl, are going to Thrylia, a strange other World, to seek a healing Soulerb for Marco's Aunt Aura's soul, that Marco 'heard' to break mysteriously. Along will go a formerly stone winged lion, Landro, who suddenly came to life as the two children passed through a gate from Palamede, a venetian castle in Nafplion. They are going to face an epic adventure as they meet various legends from all around the world that are all alive and kicking in Thrylia, with the help of two extraordinary tools, the Thirty First tome of an encyclopaedia and Tycho's Astrolabe. They have three days' time to find the Soulerb; but Time and Space in Thrylia are entities and last as long or as little they wish. Will they be able to find the healing Soulerb? Will they be able to come back to our World?

The epic food stories of Mr. R (Part one)

by Raphael Betty & Maria Papamargariti

From 1 to 10, how much would you say that you like Chocolate Banana porridge? Or haven't you tried it yet? Somewhere up in the north, in a tiny country of our small magic blue planet, called Luxembourg, there is a teacher. He loves Chocolate. He loves Bananas. But on top of all, he loves L(iving) I(n) F(ul) E(motions) with his students. Are you ready to live their stories and taste their recipes?

MARIA PAPAMARGARITI

-So, woman, why are you writing?

- Simply because 'there is no greater agony than bearing an untold story inside you' (Maya Angelou, American poet, memoirist and civil rights activist, April 4, 1928 - May 28, 2014) Some stories are so unique that you feel you are offered the gift of life so as to share them. Some people are so unique that you feel you are offered the gift of life so as to meet them. My name is Maria. I love listening to stories. But foremost I love narrating them. This is the unique story of Mr.R who came to life after my encounter - in our Master's studies- with Raphael, a unique "cook" of recipes which show you how to look at life through a "food for thought" perspective.

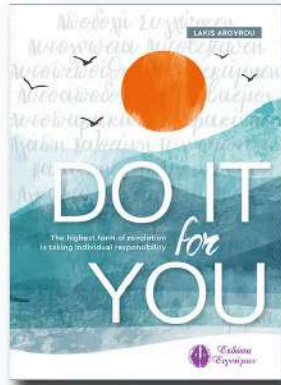

RAPHAEL BETTI

Born and raised in Luxembourg, I had the privilege to enjoy a safe and loving childhood. After my high-school years I decided to pursue academic studies in education, did my Bachelors and later a Master in Multilingual Learning & Communication. It was rather late in life that I discovered my love for writing and creating, and that I found in Maria someone who shared this passion equally with me. This project brings together what we both love: writing, inventing stories, and combines it with the essence of all life on this planet: food.

Do it For You

by Lakis Argyrou

Lakis Argyrou's book - an autobiography - contains what, even in half the quantity, would be enough to inspire people who start from low tones to sing high notes, like himself. It's a book that contains everything, if everything is the humanity of readers with an unselfish and benevolent attitude toward life and others, even the ulterior and malevolent ones.

The "as you feel" writing is in this and other books of teenage scrapbook and diary writing, which do not lose their value. Those who, like L. Argyrou, manage later in life to write like this are useful people. They remind, for those who want to remember, the importance of a free and happy - not necessarily successful - life.

All the books are judged by a serious criterion - a legitimate fear for any writer: What would be lost if the book didn't exist? If the author - first - cannot answer the question, then the "print" must be delayed. This book was ripe, ready to be published, like the always welcome evening agri in the glowing Nicosia in summer. It will cool many who are on fire. It will vindicate many who are unjustly ... A capstone!

22 Days Living in Gratitude

by Andriani Loizou

A wonderful journey begins when you put gratitude into your life. It makes your eyes seem like the “heart-eyes” emoji! Gratitude is an attitude of life that cannot be imitated. You can only live in it. Only then, only when you live a life full of gratitude, your eyes will suddenly acquire an additional filter where the bad things transform into more beautiful ones, the negative increase into positive ones and the misfortunes turn into beautiful synchronicities, which open up new gates of opportunity in our life. By putting gratitude into your life, you automatically transform yourself into what you truly are: a lovable being, because you emanate sweetness. This is how they see you.

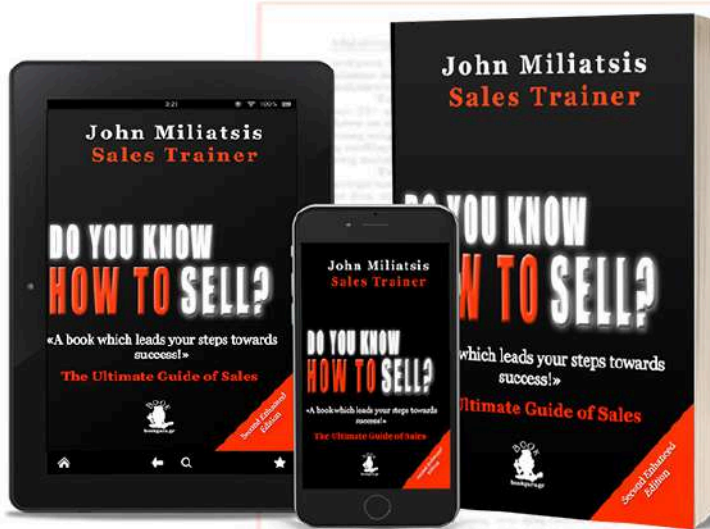

Andriani Loizou studied International and European Studies in Panteion University. She had worked for 12 years at Kykkos Monastery to organize the Word Forum of Religions and Cultures and then at its Cultural Center Archangelos. She was a Lecturer at KES College where she taught Hatha Yoga and Sports Massage in the field of Personal Trainer, Group Fitness Trainer.

Political Leadership From Another View

by Christodoulos I. Koutsoulouanos

From ancient times to modern societies, political leadership constitutes a crucial element for understanding the way policy is formulated and executed. This book presents a comprehensive analysis of political leadership through various philosophical, historical and theoretical approaches, as well as its utility over time. Different dimensions and characteristics of political leadership are highlighted examining both the personality of leaders and the strategies they employ for exercising power and managing crises. Through analyses of examples from ancient Greece to the contemporary era, this book offers an emblematic view of the role and significance of political leadership in the organization and evolution of societies.

Olympismus (Bilingual Edition)

by Theodoros Mallias

The book aims, with its educational and cultural content, to revive the Olympic vision of the great educator Pierre de Coubertin for Peace, Democracy, Liberty, Equality and Fraternity, as well as to cultivate "excellence" through the "noble rivalry" and "fair play". It is 400 pages long and is divided in five sections, like the five Olympic cycles. Section 1, A detailed reference to the meaning of Olympism and the Olympic Games. Section 2, It records the history of the Olympic Games since the beginning and the course of the timeless symbol of Olympism, the Olympic Hymn. Section 3, It scientifically approaches the ideological and materialistic dimension of the Olympic Victory. Section 4, It analyzes the moral value of participating in the Olympic Games, projects the spirit of Olympism and promotes the Olympic Ethos. Section 5, It highlights the life and great work of the lyricist of the Olympic Hymn, The Greek poet Kostis Palamas. His poetic masterpiece is also visually presented in the book with pictures of paintings by very important artists.

Professor Theodoros Mallias is a PhD in Psychology, Physical Education and Sports Science with basic and postgraduate studies at Cleveland State University of America. He is a qualified Psychologist and a certified Sports Psychologist by the International, European and Hellenic Association of Sports Psychology as well as a visiting professor at the Budapest Academy of Physical Education and Sports Science. For his significant scientific contribution and action in the field of Sports Psychology, at National and International levels, with publications, research, speeches and as a consultant psychologist of national sports missions, he was honored by the qualified International Scientific Organizations with his presence and promotion in the International Book of Sports Psychology "WHO IS WHO".

1821 Coincidence or Reality

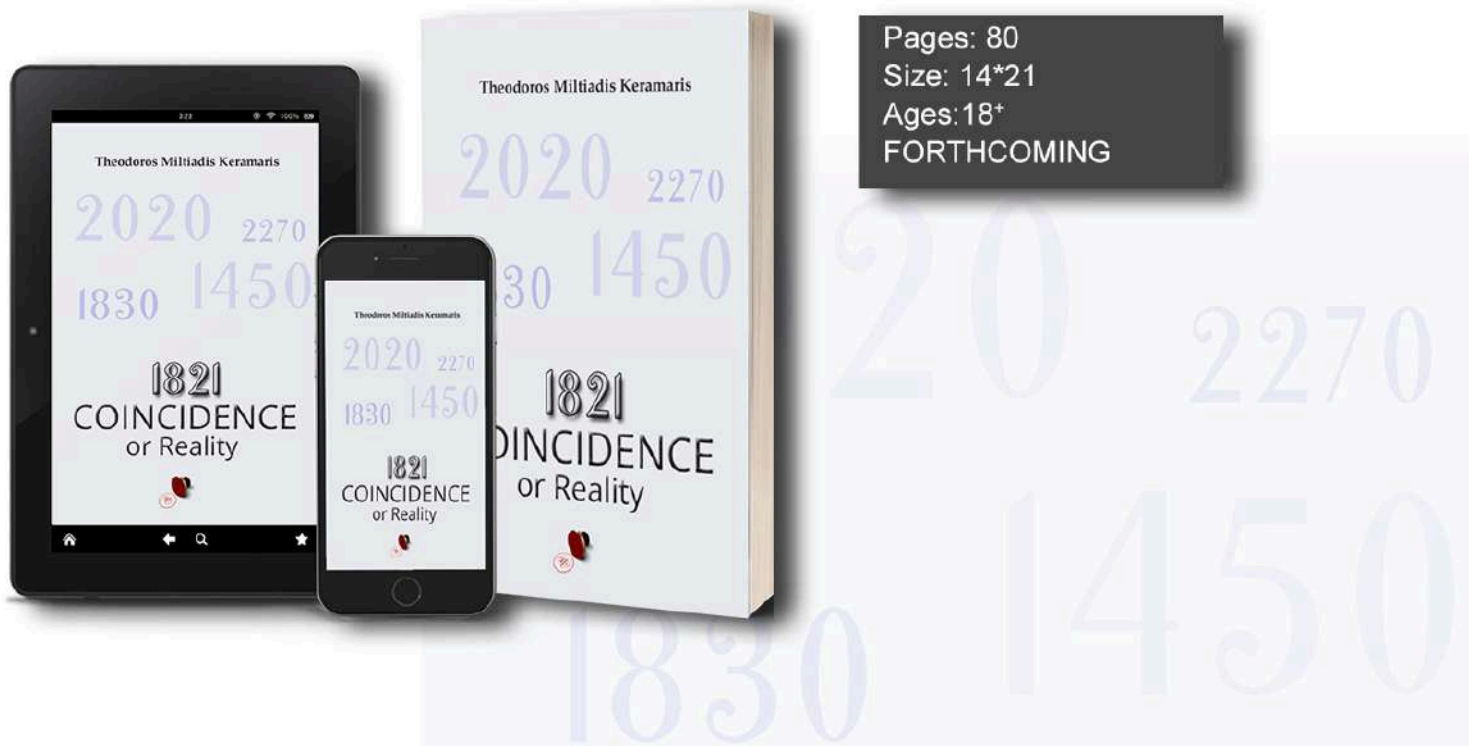

by Theodoros Miltiadis Keramaris

In my book "Coincidence or Reality", I propose an alternative way of looking at the letters and words of our ancestors. The inspiration for this approach came from the Delphic Enjoinder "Know Thyself", which is inscribed at the entrance to the oracle at Delphi. I noticed that if we assign numbers to the letters of the word "AYTON" according to the ancient numbering system, the result is 1821. A number directly linked to the Greek Revolution of 1821.

Continuing the numerical analysis, if we add the letter "Σ", we reach 2020, the year of the coronavirus pandemic.

In "Coincidence or Reality", I explore these fascinating numerical coincidences and wonder if they might hide deeper meanings and messages for us from our ancestors.

This is a challenge to the reader to think beyond the ordinary and to seek hidden truths in the letters and numbers of the ancient Greeks.

My name is Theodoros Miltiadis Keramaris, and I was born in Neapoli Kozani in 1957. I completed my education there. Subsequently, I found myself engaged in various professional activities, among which prominently stand out my work in a flour mill owned by AEVAL (Industrial Complex for the Production of Nitrogenous Fertilizers in Ptolemaida) and my experience in the mines of Public Electric Company. My time is dedicated to the study of mythology and history. My love for these fields has led me to explore the myths and cultures of other civilizations.

Annoula - True Story

by Nancy Kalfoudi - Papakou

Her motionless blue eyes sometimes hid behind the fiery blonde curls of her fringe that she pushed back with the back of her right hand, sometimes they sparkled with joy as she faced us smiling. She had the same eye color as her father. She was not black or tawny after the Greek pattern: her whole form had that pale light which we often meet in many parts of the Evros beyond the shores, which always made her stand out.

As soon as she saw us, the kids,, she would invite us to sit next to her and began to tell the endless stories of her adventurous life, as you will learn from her through the pages of her book. This was "Annoula" whose dream was to become a "teacher", like her godmother and aunt Maria, because she really wanted to help and offer to everyone. This was and remained for all of us our Annoula!

Cloudless Life, Life in Vain

by Gketsios Lazaros

So what is life for, if it remains cloudless? Where would we find reason to look for our sun? How would we recognize man? His power to tame his primitive passions! Life in vain, life in vain then? They will give you the answer the random events of life! Art only organizes the questions! See you again.

Mr. Gketsios Lazaros was born in Pella in 1985. His active action as a lyricist began in 2005 in a collaboration with the songwriter Argiris Dina. In 2011 he creates the band "SatireFaction" together with Kosmas Giavasis. In 2014 he releases the song "Fire I light" in a multi-participatory album of FM Records while the same year he collaborates with the Cypriot singer Stella Stylianou, undertaking to write the songs of her personal album in music by Christos Giotis. The song "I want to get lost" of the same album took part in the competition of representation of Cyprus for Eurovision. Since 2020, he is one of the main collaborators of Writers' Agency Bookguru.gr and Evangelia Tziaka."

"The Purpose" Dimosthenis Thoughts

(First Book)

by Dogkas D. Demosthenes

Everything and nothing. What matters in the course of every human being is the journey from point A to point B. The line which divides everything from nothing is imperceptible and thin as thread. Even though it is dark, you grope your way. Never forget. While you walk, look up because you might lose the light of the exit, otherwise.

Demosthenes D. Dogas was born in 1978 and lives in Voula, Athnes. He is the grandson of the distinguished lawyer and judge Georgios K. Dogas and son of Demosthenes G. Dogas, lawyer at Areios Pagos. He graduated in 1996 from the 1st Lyceum of Voula and has studied Finance and Maritime Law at Greenwich and Huddersfield Universities in Great Britain. Since then, he has been professionally involved in Finance and Agrotourism. He is a Politician of Attica Region and Municipal Councilor in Varis-Voula-Vouliagmeni Municipality, as Head of Municipal Faction. He is an active volunteer-scout at 2nd System N/P Glyfada and remains active until today. He has participated collectively in World and Panhellenic Architectural Competitions and is involved in photography, sailing and rescue of Greek boats as a member of the Association "Proteas" Chalkida, official representative of the "High Authority" for the Rescue of Traditional Boats of the European Union - European Maritime Heritage (E.M.H.). He has been involved in poetry since his teenage years inspired by nature, travel, volunteering and human relationships.

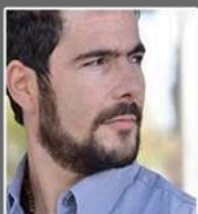

"The Face of Change" Dimosthenis Thoughts (Second Book)

by Dogkas D. Demosthenes

External changes always occur...Whether we like it or not, change is the only permanent thing in life. Changes must be transformed into an internat and personal change for each of us, through the view of universal principles, ideals and values. "Let's go and change ourselves but first of all let's dream a new future for our children and for us from scratch with right rules!

Heroes Descendants 1821-2021

200 YEARS FROM THE GREEK REVOLUTION

by Dogkas D. Demosthenes

The four hundred years of slavery of our Greek Heroic ancestors seem to all of us like four hundred long and high steps, which Greece, with a body full of wounds from the Turkish shrapnel, climbed alone one by one in order to reach the light of freedom again as a martyr. But, those years are gone forever. Now you can hear the signs of the world ringing loudly and madly, two hundred years continuously, together, in honor of Greece, which is now free through the great sacrifices of our entire Nation!

Asia Minor 22

1922-2022 100 Years of Memory From The Asia Minor Catastrophe

by Dogkas D. Demosthenes

Asia Minor and Pontus, Cappadocia and Cyprus, and the Caucasus, Kallas, our brothers, have been rendering their garments throughout time... that we are all descendants of Greeks! But even if we are separated by thousands of kilometers, even if we count centuries since we were expelled from our lost homelands, we are united by the Meanders in costumes and ornaments as well as by the common roots of our own language. We are united by the customs, dances, songs and toponyms that invariably stand and hold well in the world throughout the years! Persecution has no eyes! Persecution is faceless...It separates mothers and children, old and young without discrimination! As he rushes past, he sweeps away everything in his path!
