What is bound to happen when 17-year-old Eleni, a poor but gifted provincial teenager, is romantically involved with Antonis, a common procurer? How can this mutual love evolve under the shadows of illegality and rivalry? A novel about living in the night, immersed in the lawlessness of human trafficking, the irresistibility of lust, the beauty of Greek nature and the dirty secrets of rural society. However, within the vicious circle of sin and violence, adverse virtuous can also sprout: loyalty, courage, friendship. But are they adequate to redeem the tortured souls? Will the blind goddess of Justice finally punish the offenders? A book that should strictly be read by adults who can stomach the raw, cynical reality of the contemporary world...

Another night in Georgiana Quinton's unsavory life. An unexpected phone call from New York City. Her best friend, Hannah Walsh, is dead by a lethal jump from the 20th floor of the building where she was working as a journalist, at Clarity newspaper. Everything leads to suicide but Georgiana has a different opinion. Who were bothered by Hannah's articles? Which political figures were attacked by her journalistic arrows? What investigations she was up to before her tragic death? In a very mysterious way, Georgiana finds Hannah's laptop, with a weird online game that she was playing before her death. She decides to dive in and play the same game as her friend. But, there is a catch. The online horror game is experiential. It makes Georgiana go through some extremely frightening and unique challenges that will test her limits, in order to win and discover the truth. Her biggest fears come alive and jump out of the screen, ready to devour her. Will Georgiana manage to overcome the dangers and discover the truth behind the death of her beloved friend before the game's maze swallows her once and for all?

Her motionless blue eyes sometimes hid behind the fiery blonde curls of her fringe that she pushed back with the back of her right hand, sometimes they sparkled with joy as she faced us smiling. She had the same eye color as her father. She was not black or tawny after the Greek pattern: her whole form had that pale light which we often meet in many parts of the Evros beyond the shores, which always made her stand out.

As soon as she saw us, the kids,, she would invite us to sit next to her and began to tell the endless stories of her adventurous life, as you will learn from her through the pages of her book.

This was "Annoula" whose dream was to become a "teacher", like her godmother and aunt Maria, because she really wanted to help and offer to everyone.

This was and remained for all of us our Annoula!
